Poetical.

For the Kentucky Tribune.
If thou wert Here.

To Amie Egan.

On Mississippi's stormy banks I stray,
Far, far from thee, Amie, dear,
And as the hours I while away,
I sigh, and think of thee wert here.I see the storm's mystic flow—
Its winding course, its waters clear;
I see the pale moon rising slow,
Which could delight, if thou wert here.My heart is sad and lonely yet—
Alas, to part is so severe!
Thy form I never can forget—
And only wish that thou wert here.The yellow leaf the woods put on,
And autumn's blast is cold and drear;
The flowers of summer soon are gone—
Not so their sweets, if thou wert here.

The wife smiled.

"Now what shall we do?" uttered Peter spasmodically.

"Why we will eat supper first, and then talk the matter over."

"Supper! Have you got any?"

"Yes—plenty of it."

"But you told me you had none."

"Neither had we this morning, but I've been at work to-day and found some."

"You! You been at work?" uttered the husband in surprise.

"Yes."

"But how—where—what?"

"Why, first I went to Mrs. Snow's. I knew her girl was sick, and I hoped she might have work to do. I went to her and told her my story, and she set me at work at once doing her washing. She gave me food to bring home to my children, and paid me three shillings when I got through."

"What! you have been out washing for our butcher's wife?" said Peter, looking very much surprised.

"Of course I have, and have thereby earned enough to keep us in food through to-morrow, at any rate; so to-morrow you may come home to dinner."

"O, I have seen Mr. Simpson, told him just how we were situated, and offered him my watch as a pledge for the payment of our rent within two months, with the interest on the arrearages up to date. I told him I did the business because you were away hunting work."

"So he's got your gold watch?"

"No—he wouldn't take it. He said if I would become responsible for the rent, he would let it rest."

"Then we've got a roof to cover us, and food for to-morrow. But what next? What a curse these hard times are!"

"Don't despair, Peter, for we shall not starve. I've got work enough engaged to keep us afloat."

"Ah—what is that?"

"Why, Mr. Snow has engaged me to carry small packages, baskets, bundles, &c., to his rich customers."

"What do you mean, Maria?"

"Just what I say. When Mr. Snow came home to dinner, I was there, and asked him if he ever had light articles which he wished sent around to his customers. Never mind all that, said he. He had to wait just such work done, though he had meant to call on the ladies that lounge about the market. He promised to give me all the work he could, and I am to be there in good season in the morning."

"Well, this is a pretty go. My wife turned butcher's boy! You will not do any such thing."

"And why not?"

"Because—because—"

"Say because it will lower me in the social scale."

"Well, so it will."

"Then it is more honorable to lay still and starve, and see one's children starve, than to earn honest bread by honest labor. I tell you, Peter, if you cannot find work, I must—"

"We should have been without bread to-night, had I not found work to-day. You know that all kinds of light, agreeable business are seized upon by those who have particular friends, and engaged in them. At such a time as this, it is not for us to consider what kind of work we will do, so much as to get it. Give me liberty of living upon my own merits, and the independence to be governed by my own convictions of what is right."

"But, my wife, only think—you carrying out butcher's stuff. Why, I would sooner go and do myself."

"If you will go," said the wife, with a smile, "I will stay at home and take care of the children."

"It was hard for Peter Stanwood, but the more he thought upon the matter, the more he saw the justice and right of the path into which his wife had thus led him. Before he went to bed, he promised that he would go to the butcher's in the morning."

And Peter Stanwood went upon his new business. Mr. Snow greeted him warmly, praised his faithful wife, and then sent him off with two baskets, one to a Mrs. Smith's and the other to a Mrs. Dixall's. And the new carrier worked all day, and when it came night he had earned ninety-seven cents. It had been a day of trials, but no one sneered at him, and all his acquaintances who he met, greeted him the same as usual. He was far happier now than when he went home the night before, for now he was independent.

On the next day he earned over a dollar; and thus he continued work for a week, at the end of which he had five dollars and seventy-five cents in his pocket, besides having paid for all the food for his family, save some few pieces. Snow had given them. Saturday evening he met Mark Leeds, another binder who had been discharged from work with himself. Leeds looked cast-down and rusty.

"How goes it?" asked Peter.

"Don't ask me," groaned Marks. "My family are half starved."

"But can't you find anything to do?"

"Nothing."

"Have you tried?"

"Everywhere; but it's no use. I have been to the bindery to-day, and what do you suppose he offered me?"

"What was it?"

"Why, he offered to let me do his hand-carriage. He has just turned off his rigger for drunkenness, and offered me the place! The old curmudgeon! I had a great mind to pitch him into the hand-carriage, and run him to the—"

"Well," said Peter, "if I had been in your place I should have taken him up with the officer."

Mark mentioned the name of the same individual again.

"Why," resumed Peter, "I have been doing the work of a butcher's boy for a whole week."

Mark was incredulous, but his companion convinced him, and then they separated, one going home happy and contented, and the other going away from home to find some sort of excitement in which to drown his misery.

One day, Peter had a basket of provisions to carry to Mr. W. It was his former employer. He took the load upon his arm, and started off, and just as he entered the yard of the customer, he met Mr. W. coming out.

"Ah, Stanwood is this you?" asked his old employer, kindly.

"Yes, sir."

"What are you up to, now?"

"I'm a butcher's boy, sir."

"A what?"

"You see I've brought provisions for you, sir. I'm a regular butcher's boy."

"And how long have you been at work thus?"

"This is the tenth day."

"But don't it come hard?"

"Nothing comes hard so long as it fulfills and will furnish my family with bread."

"And how much can you make a day at this?"

"Sometimes over a dollar, and sometimes not over fifty cents."

"Well, look here Stanwood, there has been no less than a dozen of my old hands waiting around my counting-room for a fortnight, waiting for work. They are stout, able men, and yet they lie still because I have no work for them. Last Saturday I took pity on Leeds, and offered him the job of doing my hand-carriage. I told him that I would give him a dollar and a quarter a day; but he turned up his nose, and asked me not to insult him! And yet he owned that his family were suffering. But you come to my place to-morrow morning, and you shall have something to do, if it is only to hold your bench. I honor you for your manly independence."

Peter grasped the old man's hand with a joyous, grateful grip, and blessed him fervently.

That night he gave Mr. Snow notice that he must quit, and on the following morning he went to the bindery. For two days he had little to do, but on the third day a heavy job came in and Peter Stanwood had steady work. He was happy—more happy than ever, he had learned two things: first, that a noble wife he had; and second—how much resource for good he held within his own energies.

Our simple picture has two points to its moral. One is—no man can be lowered by any kind of honest labor. The second—while you are enjoying the fruits of the present, forget not to provide for the future; for no man is so secure but that the day may come when he will want the squanderings of the past.

Uncle Ben's Sermon.

A correspondent of the Boston Post, furnishes the following, which he calls Uncle Ben's Sermon, and which, he remarks, contains many wholesome truths:

Not many hours ago, I heard uncle Ben discussing this matter to his son, who was complaining of pressure.

"Helly upon it, Sammy," said the old man, as he leaned upon his staff, with his grey hair flowing in the breeze of a May morning; "don't bring pays to bills."

I have been an observer many times these fifty years, and have never saw a man helped out of a hole by cursing his horses. Be as quiet as you can, for nothing will grow under a quiet harrow, and discontent harrows the mind. Matters are bad, I acknowledge, but away me! I am thankful that we have not a famine. Besides, I always took notice that whenever I felt the not pretty smart, it was as much as to say, here is something which you have to learn. Sammy, don't forget that your schooling is not over yet, though you have a wife and two children.

Aye, said Sammy, you may say that, and a mother-in-law, and two apprentices in the bargain, and I should like to know what a poor man can learn here, when the greatest scholars and lawyers are at loggerheads, and don't for their lives, tell what has become of the hard money.

Suffly, Sammy, I am older than you; I have not got those grey hairs and this crooked back without some burdens. I could tell you stories of the days of continental money, when my grand-father used to stuff a sally box with bills to pay for a yearling, or a wheat fan, and when the women used to turn for pins, and had their tea-spots away in the gutter. You wish to know what you can learn? You may learn these seven things:

First, that you have saved too little, and spent too much. I never taught you to be a miser, but I have seen you give your dollar for nothing, when you might have laid out half as much for charity, and one half for a rainy day.

Second, you have always gone too much upon credit. I always told you credit was a shadow; there is substance behind which casts the shadow; but a small boy may cast a larger shadow farther than he can see the substance. You may now learn that you have followed a shadow, and been deceived into a log.

Thirdly, that you have gone in too much haste to be rich. Slow and easy wins the race. Fourthly, that no course of life can be depended upon as always prosperous. I am afraid the younger race of working men in America have a notion that nobody will go to ruin this side of the water. Providence has greatly blessed us, and we have become presumptuous.

Fifthly, that you have not been thankful enough to God for his benefits in past times.

Sixthly, that you may be thankful that our lot is not worse. We might have famine or pestilence, or war, or tyranny, or all together. And lastly, to end my sermon, you may learn to offer, with more understanding the prayer of our father, "Give us this day our daily bread."

The old man ceased, and Sammy put on his apron and told Dick to blow away on the forge below.

Osa or the Cart. The editor of the Pittsburg Post was determined to show his compositional type-setting was not a such a difficult art after all. Here is his first attempt, which is certainly very creditable to a new beginner:

A New Printer.

This is our first effort at retasting; we presume that it will show that we can learn fast. We are self-taught. We want no help; we will have it right without assistance. The proof will show no correction was made, indeed to it every day. We will let the printers know that we are one of them.

THE AMUSEMENTS OF CONGRESSMEN.
The Representatives of the American people at Washington are a set of rowdies. At least they have better entitled themselves to that designation, than the name of Statesmen. First they quarreled and jangled, for two months, over the election of Speaker. Then we have Rast, of Arkansas, belaying an editor with a bludgeon. Next Mr. Herbert shoots down an Irish waiter, as a breakfast amusement. Then, the Vice-President, Mr. Bright, of the neighboring town of Merionsville, knocks down the doorman. The last of these misadventures, for which Congressmen seem to have a great partiality, is the assault of Brooks, of South Carolina, upon Charles Sumner, of Massachusetts, in the Senate Chamber.

The country is to be congratulated upon the prowess of these representatives. But we really think that they employ more spirit for sporting, than for the employment of in doing laws.

Louisville Courier.

LOSS OF LIFE BY THE WAR.—Since the commencement of the war, England has lost 19,534 gallant men by death in action, wounds, and disease; and 2,763 have been discharged from the service on account of the two latter causes. England has sealed her declaration of unflinching devotion to the cause of national independence by the sacrifice of 22,457 gallant soldiers. Of these 1,021 died bravely in action; about 1,021 died of cholera, and 11,451 of other diseases England has lost in all 22,457. The losses of the French, so far as they have been ascertained, amount to 60,000. Count Orléans has admitted in Paris that the Russian loss has not been less than 500,000. The loss sustained by the Sardinians has not been, and the loss sustained by the Turks never will be, ascertained.

THE LARGEST MILL IN THE WORLD.—The city of Lawrence, founded by Samuel Lawrence, has the largest and most comprehensive mill in the world. The floor surface of the Pacific Mill is an immense structure, covering sixteen acres—the largest mill in England covers 11 acres. There are now in operation 40,000 cotton spindles and 10,000 woolen spindles; and these are to be increased to 80,000 and 20,000 respectively. There are 1,200 looms in operation, to be increased to 2,400. These, with 2,000 persons, produce 300,000 pieces of cloth per annum—one half delaines. The weekly consumption of cotton is 20,000 lbs., or 1,500,000 lbs. per annum, and 500,000 of wool. Once a month two thousand persons assemble at the cashier's office, where he pays out $60,000 to them for wages, apportioning to each one the exact amount he has earned.

According to the most reliable estimates, that portion of the West comprising the Territories of Minnesota and Kansas, is receiving from the East, over the northern roads, about two thousand emigrants a day. And if to this be added the arrivals from Indiana and Ohio, and by the Ohio and Mississippi rivers from Virginia, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Tennessee, we shall have a total of about 4,000 as the per diem increase of the population of the west by immigration.

It is the law in France, that men drawn for the military service must either serve themselves, procure a substitute, or pay a certain amount to the government. The sum paid into the treasury in this way amounted during the continuance of the late war to 62,400,000 francs, representing 22,285 substitutes.

PATERNISM.—From the annual report of the Governors of the New York Alms House, it appears that out of 7,000 persons fed, clothed and relieved the past year, 88 per cent, came from the British empire—of this number 75 per cent were Irish. Only 14 per cent of the whole number could read and write, and 60 per cent were drunkards, to a greater or less extent. This is a poor comment on the liquor law. But 80 per cent of British paupers to maintain is an item worth looking after. Who says we do not need an emigration law? Members of Congress please notice.

Exchange.
A law has been passed by the Legislature of Iowa providing that railroad trains shall come to a full stop on approaching crossings, under a penalty of $500, half to be for the informer. If life or property is destroyed by violation of this act, the penalty is double the value of the property, or from $10,000 to $50,000 or life, to be recovered by the representatives of the deceased—amount recovered to go to the widow and children, if any; if not, to go to other personal assets.

The practicability of opening a communication by water between the Mississippi river and the great lakes has been conclusively demonstrated by the arrival of a Lake Winnebago, on the 17th instant, of the steamer Appala, direct from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. The passage was made by way of the Ohio and Mississippi to the mouth of the Wisconsin river, thence up that stream and down the Upper Fox river to her destination, and it is said to have been done with perfect safety and success.

NEW JERSEY ERECT.—A prominent leader of the American party in New Jersey, now in this city, informs us that the Fillmore and Donelson spirit is thoroughly aroused in New Jersey, and that there is no doubt of a glorious American victory in that State in November. The skies are brightening all over the country.

GREAT VICTORY IN ALABAMA.—The Americans have carried last night's county by 620 majority, which gave the Democrats last year 400 majority. American gain over 1,000 votes. This, the President's friends are proud to report, will multiply success.

Exciting News from Kansas!

DESTRUCTION OF LAWRENCE!

St. Louis, May 24.
A dispatch from Boonville to the Republican says: "Lawrence was destroyed on Wednesday. The hotel, printing office and press were demolished. But few lives were lost."

LATER.

St. Louis, May 26.
The Morning Star, from the Missouri river yesterday, brought an express from the Lexington (Mo.) Express office, which says Lawrence was destroyed Wednesday last. The U. S. Marshal, with 500 or 600 men, entered the town and made arrests of all he had writs. He then passed the posse over to Sheriff Hays, who had access made, when the people rushed and fired on his men. They opened his artillery on the Free State hotel, after which the men charged and set it on fire. They destroyed the printing presses and set fire to the office. There were only about 200 persons in Lawrence. When the messenger left some of the artillery were still firing and the dust still spreading. But few lives were lost.

This is the first State of Hetchel and Richey, Free State men.

LATER FROM KANSAS.

The Costa Ricans Retreated.

New Orleans, May 27.
The Granada has arrived with dates from Havana to the 20th, and California to the 5th.
The news from California is unimportant. Market unchanged. The Indian war in Washington Territory is prosecuted with vigor. The Indians were defeated several times.
CENTRAL AMERICAN NEWS.—It is reported that the Costa Ricans evacuated Nicaragua, expressing much dissatisfaction on account of misrepresentation. They expected the natives would receive them with open arms.
The loss in killed and wounded at Rivas was one hundred Nicaraguans, and six hundred and fifty Costa Ricans.

Arrival of the Baltic.

New York, May 31.
The Baltic arrived at 6 o'clock this morning with dates to the 14th. Her news is of considerable interest.

A commercial treaty has been concluded between Prussia and the United States.
It is rumored that the American squadron will soon enter the Baltic.
On the 6th, Russia, Sweden, and Oldenburg signed a protocol at Copenhagen, agreeing conditionally to a capitalization of the sound dues.

Russia, it is reported, demanded explanations respecting the secret treaty signed jointly by France, Britain, and Austria guaranteeing independence to Turkey but it has not affected the stock markets. The Russians, under General Mouravieff, are commencing a new campaign against the Circassians. Excitement continued in Belgium respecting the French intervention and the liberty of the press; but to-day's mail says that agreement with France has been come to.

The French secret societies are causing some anxiety to the government.
Affairs in Italy continue to excite much attention.

Liverpool, Wednesday, May 14.
3 o'clock.—Sales of cotton to-day 6,000 bales—much dull. Wheat a trifle lower, with dull speculative demand; red 3s 3d to 3s 4d; white 3s 3d to 3s 4d. Flour a shade lower, with little speculative demand; Western corn 3s 3d to 3s 4d; straight Baltic 3s 3d to 3s 4d; good Ohio 3s 3d to 3s 4d. White corn scarce and advanced; sales at 3s 3d to 3s 4d for white and yellow.

The Assault on Sumner.

We find the following account of an affair which came off at Washington on Thursday last, between Mr. Brooks, of South Carolina, and Senator Sumner:
Immediately after the adjournment of Congress to-day, while Mr. Sumner was still in the Senate chamber, Mr. Brooks, of South Carolina, entered and approached Mr. Sumner, accusing him of libeling South Carolina, and his gray headed relative, Mr. Butler. He then struck Mr. Sumner with his cane and Mr. Sumner fell. Mr. Brooks then continued to repeat his blow until Mr. Sumner was deprived of the power of speech. Mr. Sumner was taken up and carried to his room.

Some eye-witnesses say Mr. Brooks struck Mr. Sumner as many as fifty times over the head. Mr. Sumner was sitting in an arm-chair when the assault was made. He had no way of defending himself.
The opinions of the subject are contradictory. Many applauding the act and others denouncing it as a cowardly attempt to beat down the freedom of speech.

WASHINGTON, May 23.
LATER.—When the attack was made upon Mr. Sumner there were probably from 15 to 20 persons present, including Crittenden, Foster, Tombs, Murray, Morgan, and other members of Congress, Gov. Cumman and several officers of the Senate and strangers.

Messrs. Crittenden, Tombs, Murray, and others interfered as soon as they could and probably prevented further injury.
Great excitement was caused by the occurrence.

Mr. Sumner sank to the floor where he lay till he was raised by his friends.
Mr. Sumner's wounds bled profusely. His physicians say they are the most serious he has ever seen on a man's head and deny his friends' admission to him.

The assault, Preston S. Brooks, is a representative in the House from the 4th Congressional district of South Carolina.
WASHINGTON, May 24.
The condition of Mr. Sumner is not deemed so favorable this morning as it was yesterday, and his physicians forbid him to leave his room.

The committee of the two Houses have taken the preliminary steps for the investigation of the circumstances of the assault.

Mr. Brooks.

COLUMBIA, S. C.—Contributions are making at Charleston and here to get up testimonials in favor of Brooks. His course is very generally approved.

Democratic National Convention.

CINCINNATI, May 26.—The city is rapidly filling up with strangers. Numerous arrivals from Virginia, Tennessee, Louisiana and Texas. There is a full delegation here from Mississippi.

The Attack on Sumner.

BOSTON, May 26, P. M.—The Massachusetts Senate adopted resolutions denunciating of the attack on Sumner as brutal and cowardly in itself, a breach of parliamentary privilege, a ruthless attack on the liberty of speech, and an outrage on the decencies of civilized life and the dignity of Massachusetts, and demanding a strict investigation and the expulsion of Mr. Brooks and the other members implicated. The resolutions were sent to the House for concurrence.

Miscellaneous Items.

St. Louis, May 26, P. M.—The Santa Fe mail arrived at Westport on the 21st. Mr. Davis, Secretary of New Mexico, was among the passengers.

The mail was stopped by a party of 30 Kiowa warriors, who demanded provisions, but offered no injury to the party.

Buffalo were numerous.

There is nothing from New Mexico.

Gov. Merrivether arrived at Santa Fe on the 27th of April in good health.

Runaway halloo.

WASHINGTON, May 26, P. M.—A rumor is widely circulated that Mr. Brooks has challenged Gen. Webb, but the facts are as follows: Gen. Quimman to-day was bearer of a note from Mr. Brooks to Gen. Webb, asking whether he was the author of the article published in the Courier and Enquirer Saturday, relative to the Sumner assault, to which Gen. Webb replied that he had abstained from writing on it till Saturday, and that the Courier of Tuesday would contain a long letter under his signature, from which Mr. Brooks could learn fully his opinions relative to the affair.

The House Committee pursued the investigation in the Sumner assault to-day. He was in bed, but gave testimony in regard to the affair, and was also cross-examined. He was unable to sit up during the visit of the committee, but did so a short time today. He is still very weak, and his physicians counsel him not to move out of the House for a week.

The Farm and Garden.

CULTURE OF THE CUCUMBER.—Last spring a friend of mine and I myself were planting cucumbers at the same time. I planted mine as is usual, in gardens, by mixing a small portion of stable manure with the earth, and raising the hill an inch or two above the surface of the ground. Observing it, however, to be much smaller than the others, I began to wonder. "Let me show you how to raise cucumbers," he said, "I have never had such a large crop as yours." Never having much lack in raising them, I cheerfully agreed to his proposition. He commenced by making holes in the earth, at the distance intended for the hills, that would hold about a peck—he then filled them with dry leached ashes, with a very small quantity of earth. The seeds were then planted on a level with the surface of the ground. I was willing to see the experiment tried, but had no expectation of anything but a loss of seed, labor and soil—but imagine my astonishment, (notwithstanding a drier season was never known, and almost universal failure of garden vegetables,) when I beheld vines remarkably thrifty, and as fine a crop of cucumbers as one could wish to raise, and they continued to bear for an unusually long time. I will not philosophize on the subject—but say to all, try it and instead of throwing your ashes away apply it where it will be of use, and you will reap a rich reward.—Ohio Farmer.

TO IMPROVE SEED POTATOES.—Charles Sager, of St. Louis, recommends the following easily tried method of improving potatoes, so as to restore them to the original soundness, richness and meanness of this valuable root.

The plan is this: Keep back some seed potatoes for six or seven weeks after the usual time of planting, say till the last week of June or the first week of July, and then plant and cultivate them the same as a stock of potatoes. They will grow until the frost withers the vines, when they should be dug. As they have not had time to mature they will be quite small—not more than an inch and a half through; but they should all be carefully gathered, and kept safe from frost through the winter, and planted at the usual time of planting in the spring—one of the small potatoes being sufficient for seed in each hill. The result will be large size, sound, mealy potatoes, as I have proven by actual trial. I hope it will be tried by some of our farmers this year.

RADISHES.—We are frequently taken to task for the war we have waged upon this worthless vegetable. For fifteen years we have not permitted one to grow in our garden, or to disgrace our table, and we have found the advantage of pursuing this course, in the improved health of our family. Man is the only animal that will eat a radish, either raw or cooked. The sagacious hog will starve before he will eat the poisonous trash. Crudo radishes are the most indigestible food that can be taken into the human stomach, independent of the acrid, poisonous substance they contain. "But they do not hurt me," exclaims one; "I can eat them with impunity, and with a relish." But, dear reader, do you not have the headache, or a bad breath? Have you no doctor's bills to pay? A radish eaten in the spring may cause a fever in the fall. If any one doubts the poisonous quality of radishes, let them out in thin slices three or four, and soak them in water for twelve hours, and then taste the water. Our word for it, they will never taste another radish. As a watchman upon the horticultural tower, we cannot commend the culture of a vegetable that we know to be injurious.—Soil of the South.
